

SOCIAL THINKING

HOSTED BY RIFKA SCHONFELD

This past Wednesday, November 16, Michelle Garcia Winner, the founder of Social Thinking, spoke to a sold out crowd of therapists, educators, and parents about communication and social interactions. Hosted by Rifka Schonfeld of Strategies for Optimum Success (SOS), the workshop provided key information about understanding and problem-solving for those who struggle with friendship and communication. Participants came away from the day with new tools for dealing with the very relevant and potentially devastating issue of social disabilities.

The next SOS workshop "Rethinking Challenging Behaviors of Children, Teens, and Adults" will be led by Dr. Ross Greene. Dr. Greene is a psychologist pioneer in the area of behaviorally challenged children. He will focus on understanding the challenging person's current mindset and adopting a new paradigm, identifying lagging skills that cause behavioral issues, using the ALSUP tool, and conducting collaborative problem solving. This event on Tuesday, November 14, 2017 is not to be missed!
